Twohey's celebrates 66th anniversary with special prices

Twohey's Restaurant in Alhambra is kicking off celebrations for its 66th anniversary this month by providing special 66 cent food items for its customers.

"It's certainly a hallmark," said General Manager Charlie Christos.

"Not too many restaurants in Southern California have managed to survive this long. We have been very lucky to be here 66 years later. We've had so many families come in over the course of the years that make it their favorite place to eat."

During the first week of April, customers will be treated to 66 cent sodas. In the following weeks of April there will be 66 cent floats, mini-sundaes and 66 cent Stinko sliders, a miniature version of the "fresh onions and pickles" Stinko burger that has helped make the restaurant famous.

"Just as good as the big Stinko, same quality meat," said Christos. "Sliders seem to be making a comeback so we thought we would catch on to that wave and offer our patrons mini-Stinkos."

Larger appetites will have more to choose from too. Twohey's will offer a month of all you can eat ribs, served with fries and cole slaw for $16.95. Customers will also be treated to something entirely new – Twohey's very own line of ice cream, which has been carefully developed over the last four months. The flavor is somewhat of a secret, as the only way to find out is to go in and try it. The ice cream will also be offered in pints for taking it home. More flavors will be added in the coming months as will more food specials.

"Customers can expect good deals and surprises throughout the year," said assistant manager

During the first week of April, customers will be treated to 66 cent sodas.

Bill Hamal. "We have so many loyal customers that come in all the time who have made this their home. It's become a place they feel comfortable in. It's like going to a friend's house for dinner. It's a base of people who can always feel that they can get a great deal and find something new."

According to Christos, Twohey's anniversary specials will also run in unison with its dining stimulus package, which has proved to be extremely popular. In this down economy, Twohey's had offered a month of across the board 10% discounts on mid-afternoon dining. That idea has now been extended, as Twohey's hopes to give back to the many customers who have helped them stay in business for well over six decades.
